

Adam Reed, TT Education Director of School Improvement

Adam is passionate about ensuring young people have the best education opportunities possible, so he focuses on training and developing educators to ensure they are best placed to improve life chances for their students.

Adam is an expert in curriculum design and school leadership and delivers a number of TT Education's national programmes, including Raising Attainment in Primary R.E. and Raising Attainment in Science. Having worked closely with hundreds of primary, secondary and special schools, Adam has an excellent understanding of education improvement from early years to sixth form.

Kevin Piper, TT Education School Improvement Partner

With over 30 years of experience working with schools across the UK and overseas, Kevin is an experienced school leader, teacher and trainer for CPD and school improvement.

Kevin has a degree in English & Drama and has worked on major school improvement projects to enhance the teaching and learning of English.

James Lewis, TT Education School Improvement Partner

James is passionate about developing children's vocabulary and comprehension skills across the curriculum and beyond.

James has worked as a School Improvement Partner for TT Education for four years. He is an engaging and knowledgeable trainer, who has provided a high standard of support for primary schools across the UK. James leads our national Raising Attainment in Primary History and Raising Attainment in Primary Art programmes. He models and shares best practice from around the country, empowering leaders and teachers to develop their children's potential.

Helen Coleman, TT Education School Improvement Partner

Helen is a former Headteacher with 18 years of teaching experience in primary education, in a range of schools from half-form to four-form entry.

Helen is one of TT Education's School Improvement Partners and she leads our Raising Attainment in Geography course. She has an honours science degree in Geography & Geology and has focussed on STEM subjects throughout her teaching career. She also specialises in Computing, having been involved in Coding, Digital Technology and Engineering clubs.

Kerry Hill, TT Education PSHE Consultant

Kerry is a Headteacher of a Primary School in Leicester. With a Masters in Leadership of Mental Health and Wellbeing in Schools, she is a passionate advocate of mental health and wellbeing. Her school is the first in the Country to achieve gold status in the mental health in schools award and is the only primary school to hold a Princess Royal Training Award.

Kerry is a consultant for TT Education and delivers our PSHE, wellbeing and curriculum courses. She successfully works with schools across the UK in a number of different contexts. She is also a national SMSC Award Verifier and has a certification in PSHE.

Miriam Jarvis, TT Education MFL Consultant

Miriam is a TT Education consultant who has successfully delivered TT Education's courses to schools across the UK. She is an experienced Subject Co-ordinator, Phase Leader and Assistant Head. She developed a passion for training teachers as a School Mentor and when working as an Associate Tutor for Teach First graduates.

Miriam has a double first-class degree in French and is enthusiastic about the teaching and learning of MFL. She now shares best practice and supports schools with their curriculum development to create rich learning environments for young, inquisitive minds.

Louise Norris, TT Education Art and DT Consultant

Louise has more than a decade of senior leadership experience, including two successful headships. She is passionate about developing cultures of self-improvement within school teams that are based on support, positive challenge and mutual learning.

Louise is a consultant for TT Education and works with schools across the UK in a number of different contexts.

Since becoming a qualified teacher in 2001, Louise's career has included teaching across the primary phase. She also has experience in leading Art, and now specialises in the teaching and learning of Art and DT.

Sue Cave, TT Education MFL Consultant

Since graduating with a BA Hons in French and a PGCE, Sue has had a varied and interesting teaching career in different sectors. She has spent 8 years as a teacher of French in a secondary school, 10 years as a lecturer in adult education and more than 20 years as a primary teacher of French.

Sue was a Primary MFL adviser for a local authority for several years and is now a consultant for TT Education.

She is passionate about the importance of early foreign language learning in UK schools.

Caroline Ireson, TT Education English Consultant

Caroline has several years of experience in teaching children across the primary years and in leading English. As a Head of Academy and Deputy Head, she has led underperforming schools through change to develop teaching, learning and outcomes.

Caroline is a consultant for TT Education, specialising in both English and Leadership. She has a particular interest in building the confidence and capacity of subject and middle leaders to develop exemplary practice. Throughout her career she has built high expectations within schools to bring about significant change in teaching, learning and outcomes for children.