Leaders ensure that teachers receive focused and highly effective professional development

Headteachers' standards for Professional Development 2020

Headteachers:

- ensure staff have access to high-quality, sustained professional development opportunities, aligned to balance the priorities of whole-school improvement, team and individual needs

- prioritise the professional development of staff, ensuring effective planning, delivery and evaluation which is consistent with the approaches laid out in the standard for teachers' professional development

- ensure that professional development opportunities draw on expert provision from beyond the school, as well as within it, including nationally recognised career and professional frameworks and programmes to build capacity and support succession planning

‘Increasing teachers’ reported influence over their professional development (PD) goals from ‘some’ to ‘a lot’ is associated with a nine-percentage-point increase in intention to stay in teaching’

She makes me realise what we are. I am proud to become a teaching assistant.

To be proud to be a learning assistant and it gives you self confidence that your work is appreciated by other educators.

Knowing self-worth

Understanding that the more positive you are, the more it rubs off onto other people.

Teaching assistants are amazing even if you have no praise from SLT. You have made me feel on top of the world
