

Applications are open for School Food Champions!

School should be a place where every child can thrive. When 1 in 3 children are at risk from diet related ill-health, school is our best opportunity to ensure every child has access to a decent, nutritious meal every day. Right now, this is not the case – but School Food Champions was created to change this!

Applications are open for Bite Back 2030's fully funded School Food Champions programme and this year, they are taking it to the next level, building a movement of 15,000 young people to become change-makers across 50 schools! School Food Champions is a whole year group intervention for Key Stage 3, involving an assembly and curriculum time sessions in term one and an extracurricular club in terms two and three. The programme gives students the opportunity to uncover the problems and injustices within our food system, gather evidence from their school and community, and devise a social action project that will transform their school canteens to put child health first!

So far, more than 1,200 pupils have participated, driving changes including redesigning school meals to make them more nutritious but as tasty as ever, doubling the number of seats in canteens so that more students can eat and setting up breakfast clubs to provide a healthy start to students' days – we are so inspired by the change that young people are leading. Our celebration report has lots of exciting case studies from our schools.

The programme is fully funded (including remuneration for teachers), fully resourced and the Bite Back team are on hand to support schools every step of the way.

Bite Back have 50 places available in their next cohort who will begin delivery in September 2023.
